THURSDAY, OCTOBER 9th, 1862

Our Approaching Dissolution.

The order has gone forth for Senators and Deputies to hold themselves in readiness for marching, and our country friends are already packing up their trunks and brushing up their ponchos for a long journey over the Pampas. Next Monday week will see the close of the session, and the commencement of a long vacation, during which our butter-fly statesmen will clip off their brilliant wings, and return to the caterpillar condition of rural life. The cares of senatorial office have been somewhat alleviated in B. Ayres, by the opera, club and state balls, where they have appeared to such advantage as the luminaries of the Interior, and regenerators of the republic. They must, however, look forward with eagerness to the luxury of provincial retirement, where they can beguile those hours unemployed in measuring calico or rearing cattle, by recounting the wonders of the capital, the feats of state-policy they have accomplished, and the distinguished soldiers, journalists, and foreigners who have shaken hands with them. How many an Argentine Cincinnatus, as he quietly sips maté or smokes a cigar, in the cool summer evenings, will read to an admiring audience the debates of Congress, interlarding the same with náive accounts of Costa, Marmol, Cabral and the other celebrities!

There may be some malevolent individuals, who will find room for ridicule in this transition from calle Peru to Rioja or San Juan, or who will forget that our public men are equally valuable as honest shopkeepers or unsophiscated » tres-familias. But we have such a contempt for state-craft on a small scale, that we believe the members of Congress will serve their country as much during the long vacation, as they could if occupied in a perennial session. It cannot be denied that they have done a good deal for national prosperity since the 25th May, although they have also left much for their next meeting. If we calculate the miles of speeching which have been got over in five months, it is not strange that some nonsense should form the alloy of their rhetorical coinage; while the performances, on the whole, passed off agreeably, and the actors played their parts as well as Hamlet could have desired.

It were idle to review their multifarious measures, or give preference to one or other member, all seeming in earnest about the business in hand. Suffice it to say, the B. Ayrean deputies have been the most obstinate in opposing some matters notably urgent which the good-sense of the Chambers ultimately carried. The decisions of Congress have been slow, but wise, their debates animated and generally interesting, their attitude independent and rarely offensive, their policy fusionist and fraternal. There is one solitary exception — the Paraná Bonds — wherein passion has prevailed over reason, and, in victimizing innocent traders, the Deputies have cast a slur upon the nation, which Congress itself must wipe off, ere closing this session. As we have no doubt the Senate will confirm their recognition of the Bonds, and the opposition cannot muster 2 thirds in the lower Chamber, the result will be a triumph of Nat. credit, and we can afford to forget one false step.

We have therefore to thank the members of both Houses for their labors, now drawing to a close, and hope that they will bring to the session of 1863 a new fund of energy, experience and patriotic devotion. The summer heat is now setting in, and many of them have hundreds of leagues to traverse, through a wild unsettled country, exposed to the weather, to the attacks of Indians and to the risks of so long a journey. We earnestly wish them a safe return to the bosom of their families, and propose on the part of our foreign brethren to vote them 'well-deserving of the country.'

The Post Office and the Mail.

Sr. Posadas, who is one of the most go-ahead men in town, and who understands his business, thoroughly, complains of his miserable head quarters, and we certainly consider that he has just reason for complaint. Besides, owing to the precarious health of the Doctor of the Port, we frequently suffer some terrible inconveniences. First of all there is no Doctor, then there is no boat, then there are no sailors, and so on, until more than half the day is lost in trying to get ashore letters and papers.

In the meantime, the Post Office is besieged, and not even the proverbial urbanity of Sr. P. is able to calm down the indignation of the anxious crowd. Happily as yet no violence has been committed, but we will not answer for the consequences if such delays as those of last week again occur. We observed a threat the other day made by a sturdy messenger, of a certain commercial house: he had called and called and waited until his patience was exhausted, his instructions from his employers were not to return without the Telegrafo Maritimo: Dinner hour was approaching and our friend was getting impatient.

He remarked people going in and out, and the majority of them getting their letters, he therefore considered that he was the victim of some practical joke: making up his mind to have satisfaction, he called to one of the clerks, and elevating his fist, plainly told him that if he didn't give him the Telegrafo, he'd shake it out of him. As luck would have it, the Libertads mail had just been assorted, so the Telegrafo was at once delivered but had it been otherwise there would have been a shindy inside, which we apprehend would astonish the natives.

Mr. Posadas gets the blame, yet he is no more at fault than ourselves. He has asked for a Post Office Falua, yet it won't be given him, he has represented the impossibility of despatching business in the hen-house he at present occupies, yet there is no talk of getting another house.

We must try, therefore, and help him. We must call public attention to the growing wants of the city. We want a proper decent Post Office, and if the country can't afford it, why the foreigners will build one for them.

A dead letter office is now established on the home style, and list of the letters lying there made out and hung up in a conspicuous part (behind the door), but these letters are never published in any paper in town.

The "Standard" is the only paper that stands by the Post Office. We publish all foreign letters free, and all Regulations we translate into English for the benifit of our subscribers. We go hand in hand with the Post Office in reformatory measures; we see that the present building is altogether too small and more adapted for San Vicente than Buenos Aires: therefore, we must speak out; Buenos Aires wants a proper Post Office, and probably for the present the best place to be fixed on, would be the Comisario house in calle Bolivar, which is shortly to be vacated.

A glance at Tucuman.

Having read in an article of the "Standard" of the 2nd inst. entitled "Our Upper Provinces" that a splendid field is opened there for the enterprise of the miner, and the toil of the agriculturist, I consider that a brief history of the Province of Tucuman, an agricultural country, will not be, in the present instance, devoid of interest to the immigrants from different quarters of Europe.

The city of San Miguel de Tucuman, the capital of the province of the same name, is a very respectable town, and one of the best situated in South America. It is seated in the midst of the most fertile plains in the world, producing rice, indian corn, wheat, barley, the sugar cane, tobacco, sundry fruits and vegetables, and whatever the husbandman may desire to cultivate. Black cattle, horses, mules, sheep and goats, roam in large flocks over a super abundant pasture. The mountains, about six leagues from the town, are covered with wood and timber of the finest kind: orange and lemon trees cover the declivities, and the summits are clad with rich pasture, whither the cattle are driven during the hot months of summer.

There is no spot perhaps in the world which holds out such inviting prospects to emigrants, with small capital, as the province of Tucuman: nature has lavished there inestimable blessings with a bountiful hand, which have not been valued as they really deserve, and turned to account by the present inhabitants. The fruits of the soil are raised in so heedless a manner, that not one half the return is yielded, which otherwise, might be expected. The greater part of the land, though fertile in the extreme, is in an uncultivated state.

The best carts which ply to Buenos Aires, Jujuy and other parts of the country, are constructed of the wood of Tucuman, which has also furnished axletrees for the water mills in use in different mining districts. Some of them, according to tradition, were sent to Potosi in the time of the Spaniards, and took more than a year in transporting: they cost from one thousand to fifteen hundred dollars each. I have seen several samples or specimens of the wood of these mountains; of which there are no fewer than sixty different species, some of them adapted to the most beautiful works of the cabinet maker.

The situation of Tucuman and the advantages which surround it, are admirably adapted as a centre of arts and commerce, as it possesses the necessary elements for the attainment of that object: we see no physical or moral reason to prevent it from rising from its present misery to a state of prosperity nor why the fairest portion of this favoured land, should not partake in its turn of the acknowledged change of revolving events.

These vast and partly cultivated plains, possessing but a scattered population might be made, without any peculiar exertion, the abode of increasing industry, fruitfulness and wealth. In making this assertion, I am supported by those who have visited the country, and it may probably be found, at no distant period, that I have not, in the language of Rasselas been. "listening to the whispers of fancy "or pursuing with eagerness the phantoms of hope." S.

Ranchos

Mr Editor

Your well-intended and Well directed efforts for the improvement of the capital, and your wholesome advice to and telling strictures on, the shortcomings of the Municipal body, and the department of police of the metropolis, induce me to invoke your advocacy in favour of the most abandoned, the most deserted, of villages—this of Ranchos. For, though the assertion at first sight may appear contradictory, she may be said to have, and at the same time not to have, either Juez de Paz or Municipalidad. For all the purposes of good, she has certainly neither one nor the other—for those of evil she has perhaps too much of both.

If the partidos of this province may be considered Wedded to their Juez de Paz as the Adriatic of old was to the Venetian Doges, poor Ranchos may well complain of the treatment she receives at the hands of her present careless, unkind spouse. In fact, so wearied out is she of such treatment, that she has for a considerable time past, been urgently seeking a divorce; and the venerable cura of the district—altho' the Church is generally opposed to such strong measures—is, I understand, decidedly in favor of her suit. In short, Mr Editor, our Juez de Paz may be, and is, doubtless, an excellent private character a good patriot, a wise and consistent representative, and, as shown by a document lately published in the native press, entertains a due appreciation of the exalted worth of our present governor; but for all that Ranchos is far from admitting his claim to being a good Juez de Paz.

By the way, I have said that our Juez seems to entertain a high appreciation of the merits of our worthy Governor, but I must observe that he is by no means singular in that particular, for who can fail to recognise in that distinguished individual the poet-soldier, the truthful biographer, the statesman, philanthropist and gentleman. He who, invested with the supreme authority, delegates it to another, girds on the sword, and in his own person opposes one of the most unjustifiable, barbarous and fratricidal invasions. Having accomplished his purpose in the complete discomfiture and overthrow of the enemy, and having saved his country from all the horrors of devastation, murder and rapine, it might be truly said of him, as Phillips remarked of Washington: 'He turned on the vanquished only the retribution of his mercy;' and ever since then he has stood, like a mighty breakwater, preventing the too violent and dangerous collision of the strongest, and at the same time most ill-restrained, party feeling. It is most devoutly to be hoped that he may yet succeed in directing these innumerable angry currents into one smooth, patriotic stream, that, Nile-like, may yet fertilize this still distracted, yet unquestionably (under his guidance) rising republic. Query, would it not be politic to try the old Herculean plan with our provincial Sala, and turn some modern Euphrates into it, which should it not succeed in purifying, might wash it away altogether. Napoleon would have made short work of such an obstructive body, and our own old Noll would long since have told them that the 'Lord was not with them'; and if long speeches constitute a long parliament, in all conscience our Sala has been quite long enough sitting.

But I have been digressing: revenons à nos moutons.' I would now say a word or two of our Municipalidad, but do not think for a moment that I would couple the idea of any member of that respectable body with the animals above mentioned in the French refrain. Far be it from me to speak in any but the most respectful manner of that venerable body that reckons among its members no less than two doctors, at least two medical practitioners, of whom it is to be hoped that they are more successful in curing the ills of the human body than they have shown themselves in their practice in the 'body corporate'; if not, woe be to their poor patients.

But the sins both of commission and omission of this corporation are so numerous, and having already greatly trespassed on your valuable space, I must defer further comment for the present.

Yours sincerely,

RUSTICUS.

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

Australian letters which are to hand contain news of some interest. Mr. Landsborough, one of the Queensland explorers sent in search of the Burke and Wills expedition, had returned to the Darling after having crossed the continent from the Gulf of Carpentaria. His despatches show that the interior is a most fertile country, well watered, and admirably adapted for agricultural pursuits. It was proposed to found a settlement on the Gulf of Carpentaria. The export duty on gold was to be reduced on the 1st of July from 2s. 6d. per ounce to 1s. 6d. The effect of this was to cause shipments to be held back until after the 1st of July. This mail, therefore, only brings news of the sailing of three gold ships for England with 81,574 ounces, considerably less than the average quantity. A gold escort, on its way from Lachlan to Sydney, was attacked on the 15th June by a desperado named Gardiner and twelve of his companions. They fired on the troopers and disabled them, and carried off about 14,000*l*. worth of gold. They were hotly pursued, and one pack horse with 1,500 ounces of the plundered gold, was captured. From New Zealand there is the report of another outbreak of the natives. It does not appear, however, to have been serious.

—In consequence of the agitation in Italy, the Patrie states that the Austrians are strengthening all the military posts on the frontiers of their Italian territory. The line of Grazie, Montanara, Borgoforte, Suzzara, and Gonzaga is guarded by two battalions of the 40th and 50th Regiments. The Hungarian garrisons of Ostiglia, Rovero, and Sermi to have been changed. Troops are being concentrated at Rovigo, which is the base of the defensive line of the Po. The works of the three forts that are being built round the town are proceeding rapidly, and will soon be completed. All the houses within the cannon range of these forts have been pulled down.

LOCAL EVENTS.

THEATRES.—At the frontier settlement of Tandil the garrison have established a theatre which will enliven the tediousness of life in the frontier.

The first piece given was the fine Spanish drama "Flor de un dia" of Campo amor in which a young hirsute gentleman performed the part of "Lola."

D. LORENZO TORRES—This gentleman has contradicted a report published in the native papers wherein it was stated that he had been offered the post of Prime Minister in Paraguay.

NEW BRIDGE—The Diario of Rosario recommends to the National Government the construction of a bridge over the Desaguadero in the province of San Luis, which river rises in the lake of Guanacache province of San Juan and empties into the lake Bebedero.

During several months of the year the traffic between Buenos Aires, Santa Fé and Cordova is interrupted by the swelling of this stream

BEEF.—Messrs. Estevan Señorans and Co merchants of this city sent a shipment of dried beef to Lima for an experiment and we are glad to hear that is has proved completely successfull for they have published the account sale which they received showing that the articles had obtained one doubloon per quintal which is a highly satisfactory return.

The question to solve now is the amount of consumption in that city which subject we leave to other more experienced hands and to that effect beg to place at the disposal of those gentlemen the columns of our journal

BUILDINGS—We are informed on good authority that there is at present a large amount of buildings in construction in the pleasant suburban localities of our northern coast.

JUDGE—Dr. Cosme Beccar was appointed judge of the Northern district of the Province, to reside in San Nicolas—we are sorry to hear that he has presented his resignation.

NEW PLOUGH — The Government have conceded a patent of invention for a new plough invented by Messrs Gazzano and Lambardi of the Villa Lujan. It is to be worked by two bullocks and is said to offer great advantages over the other systems in use.

FIGUEROA—The celebrated Oriental poet of this name has just died in Montevideo, where according to a biographer he was better known than the spires of the Matriz Church. He was the author of the National anthems of Banda Oriental and Paraguay and of an innumerable quantity of witty epigrams.

D. Francisco A. de Figueroa died at a very ripe old age notwithstanding which his good humor continued the same, having published two days previous to his death several epigrams both in Spanish and French. Amongst his numerous compositions we consider the most remarkable his "Stabat Mater' and an epic poem to Dr. Florencio Varela on the anniversary of his assassination.

SAA—LANZA SECA—The voyage of this chief from San Luis to Montevideo is worthy of notice. He left San Luis some time ago, crossed the Andes into Chile, from thence by sea to Cobija and from that place to the isthmus of Panamá visiting the principal cities of central America; from Panamá to the British Colony of Guiana, then to Bahia, to Rio Janeiro and per Saintonge to Monte Video. This trip almost amounts to the circumnavigation of South America and shows the energy and perseverance of the man.

DEATH

Departed this life on the 27th September in the villa Mercedes Mary Kenny, aged 78 years deeply regretted by her relations and friends, and highly respected and esteemed by all her acquaintances: she was a native of Moyvare, Co. Westmeath

Cordova wool is in good demand and there is a report that a sale has been made to arrive.

No Exchange has been yet drawn for this packet and it is believed that the sum drawn will not be large.

Prices of wool this year for the new clip will greatly depend on the rise of ounces the general belief is that they will go down and consequently the rates in paper currency for it.

La république Argentine

Pendant que les Etats de la grande république américaine du Nord poursuivent, avec des alternatives de succés et revers, une lutte qui semble devoir se terminer par une séparation complete, il se passe dans le Sud du continent américain un fait d'un caractére tout différent et sur lequel l'attention de l'Europe n'a pas été suffisamment appelée; nous voulons parler de la pacification et de l'union fraternelle des quatorze provinces qui forment la République Argentine. Aprés cinquante ans de guerre civile, la nationalité argentine s'est enfin constituée. Le 25 mai dernier, le Congrés républicain se reunissait á Buenos Ayres, au milieu d'une allegrésse indiscriptible. Nous n'essaierons pas de donner á nos lecteurs une idée des manifestations de cet enthousiasme tout méridional: les journaux de Buenos Ayres sont positivement dans le délire de la joie, ce qui vaut mieux, aprés tout, que le délire des passions politiques auxquelles ils se sont trop longtemps abandonnés. Pour les fétes de l'installation du Congrés, qui ont duré quatre jours, des députations étaient accourues de tous les points du pays, et notamment de Montevideo, si longtemps la rivale de Buenos Ayres. A l'ouverture du Congrés, le discours du général Mitre, le héros de la féte, fut acclamé par des citoyens de toutes les parties de la rèpublique, et bientôt les paroles du général seront répétées d'un bout á l'autre du territoire argentin, comme un gage de prospérité future et d'union indissoluble entre les provinces.

Jamais tâche plus grande ne s'est imposée á un homme d'Etat; jamais non plus, disons-le, citoyen ne se trouve dans une meilleure situation pour y établir la liberté. Le général Mitre est trés-populaire; ses succés contre Urquiza lui ont acquis toutes les sympathies des Argentins; mais ce qui vaut mieux qu'une popularité éphémére, Montevideo aussi bien que Buenos Ayres est fatigué de ces luttes sanglantes qui pendant tant d'années, ont entravé les progrés de l'Amérique du Sud, et l'ont empéché, malgré les immenses ressources de son sol et les communications fluviales incomparables dont elle dispose, de suivre la marche ascendante des Etats-Unis. Il y avait évidemment défaut d'équilibre entre ces deux parties de l'Amérique. D'un côté s'était portée toute la séve nourriciére, tout l'énergie féconde, toute l'activité morale si nécesaire aux peuples nouveaux; de l'autre, la discorde civile, les déchirements sociaux nés de l'ambition des citoyens et de leur rivalité. aujourd'hui l'equilibre tend á se rétablir et la républi que argentine remplira bientôt dans le Sud le róle d'initiatrice industrielle et commerciale que les Etats unionistes ont jusqu'á ce jour dans le Nord.

(Le Précurseur).

On écrit de Venise, le 6, á la Gazette d'Augsbourg.

"On se figure sans paine l'impression produite par le manifeste de Victor Emmanuel dans notre ville. où l'on s'est accoutumé á considérer Garibaldi comme le Messie de l'Italie, trainant le Roi á son remorque. Quant le texte du manifeste fut connu, dés le 3au soir. les épithétes de tous les genres. depuis imbecile jusqu'á traitre, furent lancées contre Victor-Emmanuel dans tous les lieux publics. Nous avons méme entendu dans un café ces mots de la bouche d'un Italianissime: Il ne sait donc pas, cet imbécile, que Garibaldi n'a qu'á remuer le doigt pour le chasser du tróne!..

Dunque non lo sa quel imbecile. che Garibaldi non vuole altro que dimorere un dito suo per scagliarlo del trono L'agitation était immense et prouvait que les partisans du mouvement italien á Venise sont attachés á Garibaldi et au parti d'action, mais non pas á Victor-Emmanuel et á son gouvernement.

Aujourd'hui l'agitation s'est calmée grâce á un manifeste sérieux que le parti d'action a publié tranquilliser les bons patriotes Il est daté de Milan du 1, signé du club démocratique central, et déjá passablement répandu ici. Les Italiens y sont invités á ne pas se laisser induire en erreur par le manifeste de Victor Emmanuel, "qui "n'est que phrares vides de sens; car ni "Victor-Emmanuel, ni aucune puissance "n'est capable d'arréter le mouvement "irrésistible de l'Italie vers la liberté et "l'independence. Rome et Venise nous ap "partiennent, et elles seront á nous, et Ga- "ribaldi, soyez-en certain, tiendra parole "malgré le crie de la foule insensée et ren- "dra Rome et Venise á l'Italie. Que les "Romains et les Vénetiens ne perdent "donc pas le courage et l'espoir, car Ga- "ribaldi entreprendra bientôt son expedi- "tions triomphale, et Victorio-Emmanuel "sera le dernier á se joindre á son cortége."

—Los Argentins, comme les Italiens sont en quéte d'une capitale, avec cette différence que les premiers veulent, contrairement aux traditions et á la nature des choses. abaisser au second rang la plus important ville de leur pais.

Une commission du Sénat national a proposé de faire de Buenos-Aires, pour une période de cinq ans, la capitale provisoire de la République, pendant que l'on édifierait sur le territoire de San Nicolas de los Arroyos une nouvelle ville destinée á devenir le centre permanent du Congrés.

Les docteurs Alsina et Elizalde ont été les champions de ce projet, qui a été combatu avec infiniment d'esprit, de talent et de logique par le docteur Velez Sarsfield; ce dernier a fait comprendre qu'au lieu d'exiler dans un désert á plus de cinquante lieues dans l'interieur, toutes les sommités politiques, il vaudrait mieux féderaliser la petite ville de San-Fernando qui n'est qu'á quatre lieues de Buenos-Aires.

L'écho de La Presse.

La Question Romaine.

La vraie difficulté de la question italienne, c'est la nécessité de maintenir, hors de toute atteintte, l'indépendance du Saint Pére. Il est bon, il faut que l Italie soit libre, mais il faut aussi que le chef spirituel de deux cents millions de chrétiens soit indépendant et respecté.

L'histoire nous rappelle, dans ses pages, la captivité d'Avignon, c'est-á-dire l'époque oú le Souverain-Pontife habitait la France, et paraitssait, bien plus qu'il n'était peut étre influencé dans ses décisions. Que le gouvernement de Victor Emmanuel se montre assez fort et assez loyal pour respecter lui méme et pour faire respecter de tous la personne et les voluntés du Chef de l'Eglise,—la question italienne sera résolue.

Jusque-la, ne l'oublions pas, la France est liée par son passé, par ses souvenirs, et par les engagements formels de l'Empereur. Lorsque l'armée française a franchi les Alpes, au printemps de 1859, les proclamations impériales ont affirmé que l'Italie serait libre; mais elles ajoutaient en méme temps: "Nous ferons respecter l'indépendance du Souverain-Pontife."

C'est cet engagement d'honneur que tiennent les soldats français, lorsqu'ils montent la garde aux portes du Vatican. Ils ne quitteront leur poste que le jour oú l'intervention de la France deviendra inutile.

Or (et c'est lá que nous voulons en venir), il résulte des paroles de M. Ratazzi qu'une solution était proche. Le moyen, si laborieusement cherché par la diplomatie, était trouvé. Le programme de M. de Cavour allait devenir une verité : "L'Eglise libre dans l'Italie libre." La rebelion de Garibaldi, les menaces des poignardeurs, l'agitation de la Peninsule, remmettent tout en question.

Avant tout, il est donc nécessaire que la révolution soit etouffé, que la direction du mouvement revienne aux mains du gouvernement. trouvez-vous bien aux yeux de l'Europe, disait naguere Mr. Billault. L'Italie est mise en demeure de donner cette preuve de vitalité.

L'Echo de la Presse.

Excavateur de Buenos Ayres.

Nous apprenons que cette ingenieuse machine qui doit doter nos campagnes de fosses et de cannaux vient d'etre transferee par les inventeurs Mrs. Charles et Edouard Van de Vel de á la rue Corrientes No. 160 dans le corralon de Mes. J. J. Black, qui ont bien voulai lui donner l'hospitalité, et d'oú elle sortira dans peu de jour commencer ses importants travaux.

Les services que peut rendre une pareille invéntion est vraiment incálculable ; vingt chines ne suffiront pas pour répondre aux travaux d'irrigation et de drainage que nos intelligents propriétaires et spéculateurs vont pratiquer désormais sur une vaste échelle ; sans compter les canaux navigables que, l'on peut creuser par le méme procédé et dont la creation triplerait les richeses agricoles et industrielles du pays.

IV

Tholomyés est si joyeux qu'il chante une chonson espagnole.

Cette journée-lá était d'une bout á l'autre faite d'aurore. Toute la nature semblait avoir congé, et rire. Les parterres de Saint-Cloud embaumaient; le souffle de la Seine remuait vaguement les feuilles; les branches gesticulaient dans le vent, les abeilles mettaient les jasmins au pillage; toute une bohéme de papillons s'abattait dans les achillées, les tréfles et les folles aboines; il y avait dans l'auguste parc du roi de France un tas de vagabonds, les oiseaux.

Les quatre joyeux couples, mélés au soleil, aux champs, aux fleurs, aux arbres, resplendissaint.

Et, dans cette communauté de paradis parlant, chantant, courant, dansant, chassant aux papillons, cueillant des liserons, mouillant leurs bas a jour roses dans les hautes herbes, fraiches, folles, point méchantes, toutes recevaient un peu çá et lá les baisées, de tous, excepté Fantine enfermée dans sa vague résistance réveuse et farouche, et qui aimait.—Toi, lui disait Favourite, tu as toujours l'air chose.

Ce sont lá les joies. Ces passages de couples heureux sont un appel profond á la vie et á la nature, et font sortir de tout la caresse et la lumiére. Il y avait une fois une fée qui fit les prairies et les arbres exprés pour les amoureux. De lá cette éternelle école buissonniére des amants qui recommence sans cesse et qui durera tant qu'il y aura des buissons et des écoliers. De lá la popularité du printemps parmi les penseurs. Le patricien et le gagne-petit, le duc et pair et le robin, les gens de la cour et les gens de la ville, comme on parlait autrefois tous sont sujets de cette féte. On rit, on se cherche, il y a dans l'air une clarté d'apotheose, quelle transfiguration que d'aimer! Les clercs de notaires, sont des dieux. Et des petits cris, les poursuites dans l'herbe, les tailles prises au vol. ces jargons qui sont des mélodies, ces adorations qui eclatent dans la façon de dire une syllabe, ces cerises arrachées d'une bouche á l'autre, tout cela flamboie et passe dans des gloires célestes Les belles filles font un doux gaspillage d'elles memes. On croit que cela ne finira jamais. Les philosophes, les poetes, les peintres regardent ces estases et ne savent qu'en faire, tant cela les eblouit. Le depart pour cythére! s'écrie Watteau, Lancret, le peintre de la roture, contemple ses bourgeois envolés dans le bleu, Diderot tend les bras a toutes ces amourettes, et d'Urfé y méle des druides.

Apres le dejeuner les quatre couples etaient allés voir, dans ce qu'on appelait alors le carre du roi, une plante nouvellement arrivee de l'Inde, dont le nom nous s'echappe en ce moment et qui a cette epoque attirait tout Paris a Saint Cloud; c'etait un bizarre et charmant arbrisseau haut sur tige, dont les innombrables branches fines comme des fils, ebouriffées, sans feuilles, etaient couvertes d'un million de petites rosettes blanches, ce qui faisait que l'arbuste avait l'air d'une chevelure pouilleuse de fleurs. Il y avait toujours foule a l'admirer

L'arbuste vu, Tholomyes s'etait ecrie: J'offre des anes! et, prix fait avec un anier, ils etaient revenus par Vanvres et Issy. A Issy, incident. Le parc, Bien National possede a cette epoque par le munitionnaire Bourguin, etait d'aventure tout grand ouvert. Ils avaient franchi la grille, visite l'anachorete mannequin dans sa grotte, essaye les petits effets mysterieux du fameux cabinet des miroirs, lascif traquenard digne d'un satyre devenu millionnaire ou de Turcaret métamorphosé en Priape. Ils avaient robustement secoué le grand filet balangoire attaché aux deux châtaigniers célebrés par l'abbé de Bernis. Tout en y balangant ces belles l'une aprés l'autre, ce qui faisait, parmi les rires universels, des plis de jupe envolés oú Greuse eût trouvé son compte, le toulousain Tholomyés, quelque peu espagnol, Toulouse est cousine de Tolosa, chantait, sur une mélopée mélancolique, la vieille chanson gallega probablement inspirée par quelque belle fille lancée á toute volée sur une corde entre deux arbres:

Soy de Badajoz.
Amor me llama.
Toda mi alma
Es en mis ojos
Porque enseñas
A tus piernas.

Fantine seule refusa de se balancer.

—Je n'aime pas qu'on ait du genre comme çá, murmura assez aigrement Favourite.

Les ânes quittés, joie nouvelles; on passa la Seine en bateau, et de Passy, á pied, ils gagnérent la barriére de l'Etoile. Ils étaient, on s'en souvient, debout depuis cinq heures du matin; mais, bah! il n'y a pas de lassitude le dimanche, disait Favourite; le dimanche, la fatigue ne travaille pas. Vers trois heures les quatre couples effarés de bonheur, dégringolaient aux montagnes russes, édifice singulier, qui occupait alors les hauteurs Beaujon et dont on apercevait la ligne serpentante au dessus des arbres des Champs Elysées.

De temps en temps Favourite s'écriait:

—Et la surprise? je demande la surprise.

—Patience, répondait Tholomyés.

SHEEP WASH.

A sure cure for the Scab in Sheep

No Sheep-Farmer should be without it.

This valuable preparation which is now used by nearly all the wool growers of this country, is a concentrated extract, one pound of which is equal to ten pounds of tobacco, retaining in this compact form all the properties of the raw material. The only labor required to render the wash ready for use, is, to stir the paste into the quantity of cold water, needed for the number of sheep to be cured.

The most satisfactory recommendations of its perfect safety, simplicity and utility, from the principal Estancieros of this country may be had on application to the undersigned. Full directions for use are given on each tin.
